

Abstract:

The present invention relates to polynucleotides directed towards a gene of a catalytic subunit of human telomerase, as well as to the use of said polynucleotides for the diagnosis, prophylaxis, reduction and follow-up of diseases associated with cell growth, differentiation and/or division, such as tumor diseases.